Facing east, this 2 1/2 story brick house is a good classic Victorian. The gable roof runs north-south, and has a central cross gable. The house is five bays wide, with a central door with a transom. Windows have 4/4 sash. There is a one-story "farm porch" at the front. Frame 1-story bay windows appear at each end (north and south) of the main block. A 2 1/2 story addition at the rear gives the house a T shape. There are two interior Victorian chimneys in the main block roof, which is metal, with deep eaves at the ends. There are Victorian (bordering on Gothic) gabled dormers, with decorative "icing."

One of a very few existing Victorian homes in LaPlata, the house was owned and built by members of the Chapman family, who gave land for LaPlata. It stood on the Chapman estate called Glen Alpine, and sometimes LePlateau.
